

Financial Modelling For Bank Credit

The bank uses its credit rating model which analyses the risk of the borrower based on financial, business, industrial and management risks. After the due completion of the technical, financial and commercial viability of the loan is checked, and after the bank is convinced of a borrower's financial strength, the bank chooses to sanction the loan. However, in certain cases, the bank still chooses to sanction the loan even though the financial performance is weak. In these cases, the bank ...
